Arab Screen Is Tightened Across U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (NYT).

The Nixon administration, acting on a promise by the President to protect Israeli citizens in the United States from potential terrorist attacks, has begun a major effort to identify arabs residing in the United States suspected of planning terrorism. It also will screen more carefully travelers from Arab nations en-tering the United States. A spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service called the remi-secret operation "a very touchy one," and refused to elaborate on just what steps Sudat says he lacked tential terrorists or which federal agencies, besides his own, were But other government sources said the effort was nationwide in scope and that all federal agencles involved with international travel and with the suppression of terrorist activities were taking part, including the State Department and the FBI.

Mr. Nixon's statement promising to take "adequate security measures" to protect Israeli nationals living or traveling in the United States was made Sept. 5, the day 11 members of the Israeli Olympic team were killed by a group of Palestinian guerrillas in Munich.

Sol Marks, the district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in New York. emphasized that the government's effort aimed at preventing similar incidents in the United States was focused only on those individuals the government had reason to believe might be planning such activities. He stressed that the government bad no intention of harassing the U.S. Arab community in general, and wished to avoid touching off a panic among Arab students and others with legitimate reasons for being in the United States. Other government sources in-dicated that the operation, about which they refused to give details for fear of diminishing its effectireness, had only been in effect for a day or two.

But employees in the office of the Arab Information Center here, which is affiliated with the League of Arab States, said they had been aware of surveillance by FBI agents for about 10 days. Abdul Abyad, the center's press officer, said that in recent days there had almost always been two unmarked cars filled with men he believed were federal agents period in front of his

The Immigration Service could not immediately say precisely how many Arab nationals were traveling or residing temporarily in the United States. The State Department estimated the number of Arab students here at shout 6,300, including those from Egypt Syria, Lebanon, the Arabian Gulf states and North

Besides the surveillance and interrogation operations, which are said to be aimed at known or suspected members of the Black September and Fatali groups, and their sympathizers, the government has recently tightened visa requirements for all foreigners in transit through the United States.

West Germany Expelling 46 Aliens

BONN, Oct. 5 (AP).—Wide- and the 1,000-member General spread police raids throughout Union of Palestinian Workers. West Germany have produced expulsion orders for at least 48 Arabs since two Palestinian organizations were banned last

A Federal Interior Ministry spokesman, who was asked how many Arabs have been arrested and deported since the ban went into effect last night, said that wanen would have to ask each of the 10 West German states. The tough security crackdown, one of a series since the Munich Olympics: massacre, touched off angry student protests. ...

The German Students League demanded that the federal government disclose the number of arrests and deportations. It said that it would seek legal action to remove the ban on the Palestinian organizations and accused police of denying the arrested Arabs their right to legal defense. Interior Minister Hans Dietrich

Genscher announced last night, at a hastily called news conference, that the government had banned the 800-member General Union of Palestinian Students

"Well under 100 Arabs" have been expelled from West Germany, be said, since the Sept. 5 massacre in which eight Pales-tinian terrorists killed 11 Israeli Olympic athletes.

Arab students and the Bonn office of the Arab League claim that Mr. Genscher's figure is too low. They say that Lundreis of Arabs were expelled even before the new crackdown last

The German Students League told a Boon news conference that more than 50 Arab students in 18 cities were arrested today and ordered to leave the country. The league said that it did not know how many Arab workers had been arrested.

Mr. Genscher said that 1,900 Arabs seeking to enter West Germany have been turned back at the border as part of the security crackdown since the Olympics. Reports from some of West Germany's 10 states:

· After 30 raids last night in Munich and other cities in Bavaria, 17 Arabs have been de-protesting their deportation orders and 50 are under investigation, police said. All were believed to be connected with newly banned Palestinian organizations or otherwise deemed "agitators."

• In Baden-Wuerttemberg, nine Arabs have been arrested and await expulsion. Previously 10 were expelled after the Olympics shooting but before last night's new crackdown.

• In north Rhine-Westohalia the country's most populous state, police seized eight Jordanians and two Egiptians. They were ordered expelled. During the ralds on Palestinian offices and homes, police selzed unspecified.

. In Saarland, four Arab officials of Palestinian organiza-tions were taken to Munich for deportation to Jordan and Egypt, In West Berlin, about 1,000 demonstrators, mainly Arabs, marched through the streets tonight carrying red fisgs and placards demanding revocation of the ban imposed on two Palestinian groups.

Such a settlement, Mr. Nixon said at a news conference, "will have in mind our goals of preventing the imposition by force of a Communist government in South Vietnam and, of course, a goal that is particularly close to our hearts in a humanitarian sense, the return of our prisoners

Today's news conference was wide ranging, with the President taking "hardline" stands on many issues that have come up between him and his Democratic foe in next month's election, Sen. George McGovern.

Congress' Spending Assailed

Mr. Nixon condemned "congressional overspending," which he called a threat to his pledge not to increase taxes. Vowing again that "there will be no presidential tax increase," he said he would forgo campaigning, if such abstinence were necessary, to stay close to the White House "until that very great increase caused by congressional overspending is met and defeated."

The chief executive repeated that he had no personal knowledge of the alleged bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate buildings complex here earlier this year. The President reiterated that none of his current aides were involved in the reported break-in and bugging.
The President said that the

He said that the investigation decision was made at a lower level, without his knowledge. "I conducted an investigation of the Hiss case and that in-vestigation was a Sunday school picnic compared to the amount of effort put in on this," he added.

The Hiss case unfolded while

Mr. Nixon was a freshman memher of the House Un-American Activities Committee, which investigated security leaks in the Truman administration. Mr. Nixon said he was "not going to dignify" Sen. McGovern's charges of corruption in the Nixon administration by replying to them. The President said he thought "the responsible members of the Democratic party will be turned off by this kind of campaigning" by Sen. McGovern. The President said that the sale of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union was beneficial for America. He pledged action if investigations indicated that U.S. grain dealers made illegal profits from the transaction, which has been roundly criticized as profiting

F-111 Jets Cleared for Combat After Grounding and Checkup

U.S. Command gave its con-troversial F-111 fighter-bombers a clean bill of health today after six days of tests and sent them on missions over North Vietnam. The command said that only two strikes were flown overnight, although sources reported that most of the nearly 50 swing-wing planes have arrived at Takhli Air Base, in Thailand. The command reported that

Times of London Reports 'Broad' Accord for Peace

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP).-The Times of London reported tonight that the Americans and North Vietnamese are believed to have reached "broad agreement" on ending the war in Vietnam.

Without identifying its sources, it said that the reported agreement was reached between Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, and North Vietnamese officials during meetings in Moscow and Paris.

"The detailed terms of the agreement are not to be completed-or at least not appounceduntil after the American presidential election on Nov. 7," said the front-page story by the Times's unidentified diplomatic correspondent. The story's headline said:

"Hanci Hope of Power From Inttial Coalition in Salgon."

The article said: "The North Vietnamese, it is understood, will be glad to accept a coalition government in South Vietnam in which many political groups are represented_including Communists and Communist sympathicers, though not dominated or directed by them. They are confident that this initial stage would lead to an ultimate Comtween Hanol and China. The command acknowledged publicly for the first time that the F-111s had been withdrawn from combat after flying only four missions last week during which one of the jets mysteriously vanished with two crewmen aboard. The headquarters of Gen.

Frederic Weyand, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, said that as the remaining crews arrived ct Takhli during the past six days "they underwent a series of programmed training and orientation flights." "In addition, due to the loss of one aircraft due to unknown causes on the night of Sept. 28, a thorough systems recheck was accomplished... to insure that the systems were functioning properly in the Southeast Asian environment," the commander's statement said. "The systems proved to be fully operational and the aircraft were rescheduled for combat missions."

The command claimed that several F-111 strikes had been scheduled for Tuesday night and yesterday morning, but were canceled because of severe weather. The F-IIIs are billed as "all-weather" fighter-bombers and the same day their raids were supposedly canceled, other fighterbombers without all-weather capabilities, such as F-4 Phantoms, logged 120 strikes over North Vietnam, according to the command's communiqué. When asked for an explanation, a spokesman said, weather conditions where the F-111s would have flown were more severe than in the area where the other aircraft were able to fly."

Meanwhile, Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency reported that five U.S. planes were shot down yesterday and that several cast put the total of U.S. planes downed over North Vietnam so declined comment.

Watergate Spy Says He Took Bugging Record to Nixon Committee

By Jack Nelson and Ronald J. Ostrow

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 5 .-A participant in the attempted espionage incident at Democratio party headquarters in Washington has told the Los Angeles Times that he delivered logs detailing covertly recorded conversations at the headquarters to the Committee to Re-Elect the President less than two weeks before police closed in on the operation

Alfred C. Baldwin 3d, a key government witness in the case, said the logs were addressed to an official of the committee who is not among the seven defendants indicted for the crime, Mr. Baldwin did not identify the

Mr. Baldwin said he was instructed to deliver the logs in early June by James W. McCord jr., then security coordinator for the Nixon committee and one of the seven defendants indicted month in connection with River committee officer.

the June 17 break-in allegedly Mr. McCord gave him the instructions from Mami, Mr. Baldwin reported, after Mr. Baldwin said he had recorded "some important conversations" while monitoring a wiretap on Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building complex.

Mr. Bakiwin, 36, a former FBI agent and security grard for Martha Mitchell, wife of ex-Attorney General John N. Mitchell, told of his own role in the case in more than five hours of taperecorded interviews with the Los Angeles Times.

He said he had monitored the telephone tap at Democratic beadquarters from a motel across the street. Mr. Baldwin said he placed the eaverdropping logs in an envelope, eddressing it to the Nizon campaign official, taped and stapled the envelope and took it to the

made to plant microphones and in the building and he took the envelope, recognized the name on it and said he would see to it that the official received it," Mr. Baldwin said.

Mr. Baldwin said he believed the eavesdroppers were interest-ed primarily in information about Sen. George McGovern, Lawrence O'Brien, then Democratic party chairman and Democratic political strategy.

On the advice of his lawyers, Mr. Baldwin declined to give details of the conversations he had monitored. But he dismissed published reports that the eavesdropping sought signs of a link between Fidel Castro's Cubs and the Mc-Govern campaign.

Although four of the five men arrested on June 17 were born in Cubs and all had been decaly involved in anti-Castro activities, Mr. Baldwin said he never heard the three defendants with whom he had contact mention Cubs. In addition to Mr. McCord, those least one other person, perhaps defendants are G. Gordon Liddy, a former FBI agent, White House side and finance counsel at the Committee to Re-Rect the President, and E. Howard Hunt ir, ex-CIA agent and former White House consultant,

The Baldwin interviews shed new light on the politically charged case, information which is unlikely to be zired in civil or criminal courts until well after Election Day.

Chief among the new disclosures are these:

· Mr. Baldwin said that he saw electronic equipment, some of which was later used to listen in on the Democrats, stored in Mr. McCord's office on the Nixon committee premises.

· Mr. Baldwin said he watched from across the street on May 25 as Mr. McCord entered Democratic headquarters and allegedly installed two wiretaps. Mr. McCord was accompanied by at two, but Mr. Baldwin was not close enough to identify anyone other than Mr McCord.

• The device planted on what the eavesdroppers believed to be Mr. O'Brien's telephone falled to transmit, so Mr. Baldwin said he was ordered by Mr. McCord to enter Democratic headquarters to pinpoint Mr. O'Brien's phone as well as to learn where Mr. O'Brien would be staying in Miami during preparations for the Democratic National Convention in July.

Mr. Baldwin accomplished this, he said, by posing as the nephew of John Bailey, the former Democratic party chairman who like Mr. Baldwin, is from Connecticut. Democratic office workers gave him royal treatment, Mr. Beldwin said-and Mr. O'Brien's

Miami telephone number, The accused eavesdropping squad of five men broke into Democratic headquarters early on June 17, allegedly to place a tap on the phone which they then install other bugging equipment in the offices.

The five were caught, and min-utes later Mr. Hunt rushed into Mr. Baldwin's room across the street to call a lawyer, Mr. Baldwin said. He said Mr. Hunt's telephone conversation was brief and to the point. "Well, they've had it," he quoted him as telling the party on the other end of the line. Mr. Hunt reportedly told the other person, whose identity is unknown to Mr. Baldwin, that he had $5,000 for bail money. Mr. Baldwin said he never questioned the legality of his wiretanning assignment or any other of Mr. McCord's orders because he assumed they were properly "authorized." He said he had reached that conclusion partly because such a large number of former White House sides were working for the Nixon re-election committee.

(Continued from Page 1) integration, he said he would consider seeking a constitutional amendment if Congress didn't act to check forced busing. He vowed to continue to seek reform of the welfare program: In the 40-minute news conference his seventh of 1972 and, according to the White Rouse, his 25th since taking office—the Pres-ident replied briskly to criticism of his order to mine the harbors at Halphong and other ports in North Vietnam and to undertake massive bombing against the North in response to the North Vietnamese ground offensive last

A questioner noted that some critics say the bombing serves no useful purpose and asked the President what good it was doing insamuch as peace negotiations have falled to produce a settlement and there still is considerable Communist military activity in South Vietnam.

Without mentioning Sen. Mc-Govern, whose presidential cam-paign has emphasized attacks on Mr. Nixon's bombing and mining policy, the President said that the critics have been proved wrong in a number of instances. As examples he cited their assertions that South Vietnam was doorned after the Communists mounted their heavy assault across the Demilitarized Zone, that his response of bombing and mining would "torpedo" his cum-mit meeting with the Russians and that he was risking World War III.

"Those predictions proved to be wrong," Mr. Nixon said. "Now these same critics say the bombing and mining was not necessary. it has accomplished no purpose and is not necessary for the Well, I would say, based on their track record, I would not give much credence to what the critics have said in any respect." Then the President defended the bombing and mining as "essential" to turn around what was potentially a disastrous situation in South Vietnam.

Foe's 'Offensive Broken' "The back of the enemy offensive has been broken. They hold no provincial capitals now at all," he said, adding:
"This could not have been accomplished without the mining and the bombing, and the mining and the bombing will continue, of course, until we get some agreements on the negotiating front " Speaking of election-year pressure for a settlement, Mr. Nixon noted that in 1968 'well-intentioned men made a very, very great mistake in stopping the bombing without adequate agreements from the other side." In that election year, President Lyndon B. Johnson decided not to seek re-election and halted the bombing in a bid for successful peace negotiations.

does not "criticize" that action "as far as their motives are concerned.

"I simply said, having seen what happened then, we are not going to make that mistake now. Then he asserted: "The election, I repeat, will not in any way influence what we do at the negotiation table."

Mr. Nixon refused to discuss the negotiations, which he said "have been, in the private chan-nel, very extensive." The United States has agreed with the Communist negotiators not to disclose "the content of those negotia-tions," he reminded newsmen. Paris Peace Talk Session Shows No Movement

PARIS, Oct. 5 (WP).-The four delegations at the Paris peace talks held their 162d weekly ne-gotiating session today without the slightest indication of support for President Nixon's note of cautious optimism about their eventual successful outcome.

Both American Ambassador William J. Porter and North Vietnam's Xuan Thuy agreed but only on the negative results of the meeting.

Constant Problem

"We constantly have a cash flow problem but we meet it constantly." Miles Rubin, one of Sen. McGovern's financial managers, said in an interview.

He said that by Election Day, fewer than five weeks off, the accomplated and spent at least $24 million to maintain a "very frugal budget,"

Since the Democratic National Convention nominated him in July, Sen. McGovern has raised about $9.5 million in donations and loans. Mr. Rubin estimated, in what was meant to be an optimistic assessment, that $7 million more mis be collected in small gifts by Nov. 7 as a result of televised and direct mail appeals for funds.

Short of Goal

That would leave Sen Mc-Govern at least $7 million short of his budget goal and, as a consequence, be has begun to devote increasing time and effort to persuading wealthy Democrats and liberals to part with large chunks of money.

Navy Doubles Advance on F-14 For Grumman Agnew announced two federal grants totaling $50 million for the city's flood damage rebuilding.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AF). The Navy announced Tuesday that it has agreed to provide the Grumman Aerospace Corp. With a $19.6-million advance payment for the F-14 fighter and set Dec. 15 as the new date when it must decide whether to buy more of the planes.

The amount of the advance payment is double the sum the Navy agreed to provide in August when the firm agreed to postpone the contract decision date from Oct 1 mill after the presidential election.

Grumman has told the Navy that production of the plane was costing more than expected and that it could not build the next lot of planes without a price in-

Under the original contract with Grumman, the Navy was to have decided by Oct. 1 whether it wanted to order 48 more F-14 fighters, each of which now costs $16.8 million. The advance pay-ment and the change in the contract date were approved by Con-gress in mid-Angust. The $19.6 million will help Grumman pay its bills. Financial troubles with the F-14 resulted in Gramman's losing its credit earlier this year with six banks.

House-Voted Clean-Water Bill Receives Approval of Senate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The Senate, by a vote of 74 to 0, gave final congressional approval tonight to a far-reaching bill that is designed to eliminate over the next decade the pollution of the nation's waterways.

The House adopted the measure earlier in the day, by a vote of 366 to 11. But congressional experts said that there was a good chance that President Nixon would veto the

The bill quadruples the amount of money the President sought to control water pollution, and it is much stricter in its timetables and enforcement procedures than the administration wanted.

Tha legislation would set a ngtional goal of eliminating all pollution of the water by 1985. To accomplish this goal, it would authorize $24 billion, most of it to be pledged to states and localities over the next three years for the construction of waste treatment

The Nixon administration had asked for only $6 billion over the three-year period, and, under the administration's plan, the money would have to go through the normal appropriation channels.

The key provision of the legislation, which has the support of most environmental organizadons, would require all industries discharging into the nation's lakes and rivers to use the "best practicable" technology to control pollution by 1977 and the "best available" technology by 1981.

In the meantime, plants that put wastes into the water would method of controlling pollution. In the past, the states have been given primary responsibility for setting water-quality standards and they were set on a stream-by-stream basts. These standards were not aimed at prohibiting effluents but rather at determining a maximum amount of discharge that could be allowed without degrading the water. Environmentalists have protested that this system does not work, Barely half the states have established standards that have been approved in Washington, and few cases of violations have reached

The aim of the new system is forbid the discharge of pollutants as much as possible and to require industry to employ the most advanced equipment to meet the goal of climinating it entirely.

For communities, the federal government would contribute 75 percent of the cost of constructing a waste treatment plant, compared with the present 55 percent. In other congressional action:

One such exils newspaper, published here in Washington, in its September issue urged the assassination of President Tito and other top Yngoslav leaders and provided its readers with advice about guerrille warfere. The paper also provided advice on various ways of harassment and sabotage, including such methods as the use of poisonous materials in agriculture sabotage. The monthly Hrvatska Borba (Croatian Struggle), described as the organ of the "Croatian Republican party" emphasized that its sympathisers need "wea-pons and ammunition and ex-plosives of all kinds." It urged them to establish links with other dissident groups in Yugoslavia and provide them with weapons and radio equipment.

The problem of terrorism was one of the principal topics in talks earlier this week between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Yugoslay Foreign Minister Mirko Tepavac. A State Department spokesman said later that the Yugoslav request is "unde; active consider-

Sen. Jackson's Cold War

Sen. Henry A. Jackson has succeeded in rallying nearly three-quarters of the U.S. Senate behind his proposal to withhold credits and tariff concessions from nations imposing undue restrictions—such as the Soviet "diploma tax"-on would-be emigrants. That the Soviet restrictions on emigration are harsh and unfair may be taken for granted—in American eyes that applies to much of the Soviet government and its operations. The question, in respect to Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union, is whether this is the best method of approaching the problem, and, in fact, whether such aspects of internal policy should dominate, or he sobordinated to, tha general accommodation of diverse political and economic systems into a reasonably orderly

For Sen. Jackson, who is the most prominent legacy of the cold war in the Senate, and who has been an opponent of almost every effort to improve relations between Washington and Moscow, such questions ara probably academic. But for the rest of the Senate, the matter deserves a good deal more study than it has, apparently, received.

A number of Americans, Sen. McGovern and his supporters, have attacked the "cynicism" of the Nixon administration and (in the words of Sargent Shriver, Mr. McGovern's running mate) its "passion for powsr." Mr. Shriver said: "The American people don't expect their government to declare war on other countries every time there is evil in the world, hut Americans have always canse it wishes to espouse.

expected their government to declare us on the side of life and justice." That such decigrations have often resulted in war, or certainly in the absence of peace, is one of the painful anomalies of exaltedly moral diplomacy.

In the case of Bangladesh, for example, the Nixon administration was roundly condemned for not giving verbal support, at least, to the Bengali rebels. But in purely human terms, can anyone say that Bangladesh is not now far worse off than it was as East Pakistan? The quiet supply by the United States of more aid than any other country is glving the Bengalis is not an apology for American mistakes in that area _it is an attempt to make good the failures of India and the Soviet Union to do more than split up Pakistan by a war, and leave a shambles in Bangladesh.

International morality, like almost every man-made quality, requires the halancing of good and evil, the acceptance of some affronts to the ideas of one group in the interests of some larger gain. When America was young, and isolated physically from the rest of the world, it could sit in judgment on other nations with impunity. This is no longer possible, nor is it cynicism, nor a lust for power, that necessarily requires compromise. Often, it is quite the contrary -an acceptance of the limitations of power. The Senate would do well to consider such limitations when it is moved to assume moral postures which can only harm, not help, the

British Labor's Fantasy

When the British Labor party is out of power, its annual conference—probably the most undemocratic assembly of its kind in the West-often hecomes an emotional outburst of unreality and irresponsibility. It is useful to keep this thought in mind in scanning the havoc wronght at Blackpool this week by a hizarre combination of union bosses, fellow travelers, Little Englanders, Commonwealth Firsters and sordid oppor-

The Labor conference stopped just short of demanding Britain's withdrawal from NATO and of rejecting membership in the European Economic Community on any terms whatever. But former Prime Minister Harold Wilson pald a stiff price for even the highly circumscribed victories he won in behalf of moderation and common sense. His steady retreat from the all-out pro-Common Market stance he adopted while in office is in striking contrast to the effective leadership provided by Danish Premier Krag that produced an overwhelming endorsement munity.

In order to head off hy the narrowest margins a resolution that would have Britain spurn membership of the European community even in principle. Wilson had to promise something he knows is impossible:

that a Labor government would renegotiata the terms of membership or yank Britain back out of the Community it will join in January. And he had to stand aloof while another resolution was adopted that would set ludicrous renegotiating terms.

Sicco Mansholt, president of the Community's Executive, had bluntly warned Mr. Wilson that there could be no renegotiation of the terms accepted by Prime Minister Heath's government. Moreover, his own Common Market negotiator, George Thomson, has said a Labor government would have accepted the terms Mr. Wilson now calls "humiliating" and "destructive" for Britain, Mr. Heath spoke truly in Rome this week when he sald, referring to Labor's withdrawal threats: "British governments do not break treaties."

It would be disturbing at any time to have a British Labor party, even in opposition, so far out of step with Britain's allies and community partners, with its own Social Democratic counterparts in Europe and with its own past policies while in power. The Blackpool exhibition of irresponsibility and irrationality is alarming at a time when opinion polls show Labor leading Mr. Heath's Conservatives by a wide margin for reasons that have little to do with Britain's impending move into the European Community.

Danes Vote for Europe

The marriage of reason between Denmark and Europe will not be without frictions. The Danes doubtlessly are ready to cooperate loyally with their eight partners, but they are not prepared in the least to speed the integration process, least of all the political one. They will be close in this respect to Britain and France, but they risk shocking those who, especially in small or mediumsized countries like theirs, demand that progress be made toward supranationalism. -From Lc Monde (Paris)

The Danish yes-vote has not magically solved the European problems like that of the reform of EEC institutions that will be a major Item on the agenda for the October 19 European summit. The final communiqué of the Heath-Andreotti talks makes it clear that both Italy and Britain intend to have these institutional problems on the ogendafor the Paris talks and that they intend to have a real European regional policy perfeeted, a policy that makes Paris shudder.

Understanding the U.S.

There are two keys for understanding the United States. The first one is that it is a model of democracy in this sense that nothing can be hushed up there. First, because the very idea of consorship is inconccivable there. Also, because the role of the press and of television is conceived in a way totally different from what happens in France. In the United States, politicians, officials, leaders at all levels know that they do not have the right to keep silent. They have to explain themselves publicly and to answer all questions, however embarrassing.

The second key is that the main force of America is really the "silent majority," of which Mr. Nixon rightly claims to be the representative. This silent majority is not made of "bourgeois." It is made primarily of workers, farmers, employees who constitute a middle class tremendously attached to American traditions and politically conservative. They want two things: to consume more and to maintain the greatness and power of the United States.

-From Le Figaro (Paris) Hatchet Buried in Far East

Chou En-lai and Tanaka have buried the hatchet. But traditional rivalry cannot be transformed into partnership at one stroke. Rarely do summit meetings change undercurrents of history into the opposite. Nevertheless, it is of historic importance and can only benefit world peace, when after a long and bloody interlude the Chinese continental empire and the Island empire of Japan establish positive relations again. However, prosperous small states will ponder the fact that sooner or later the flourishing Chinese community on Taiwan is going to be sacrificed to "peace" hetween the blg Far Eastern powers.

LONDON-The first large shipment of kangaroo talis has just been made to England from Sidne. N.S.W., and they have been exhibited for the past few days in Leadenhall Market. The kangaroo tail, like the ox tail, makes a very fine soup, and in Australia It is regarded as a great lutury. Although its price compares very favorably with the ox tail, it is a table delicacy for the epicure rather than for the average

NEW YORK-Aithough the plans for the company are not yet formally announced, it is understood that a large number of capitalists here, in coajunction with equally powerful ones in London, have combined to arrange for a cross-Atlantic air service within the next two years. The contemplated craft are to be 900 feet long and 114 feet in width and will have an estimated speed of 100 miles ao hour. The journey will take less than two days.

Agnew Campaigning Now for 1976 Bid

By R. W. Apple jr.

WASHINGTON. - Spiro T. he went on, "and we'll run it in Agnew is out there on the road chasing votes for President Nixon-he warns every crowd that complacency could do in the Republicans this year-but he is persuading no one that this is his primary goal-not the people who come to hear him, not the reporters who travel with him, not the local politicians who greet him and certainly not his own

From the Vice-President and his spokesman, Victor Gold, the denials tumble daily: He is "keeping the options open," not work-ing toward 1978. No one has even begun to think about the presidency, Mr. Gold says, "but I'll admit that if we were we wouldn't teli vou about it."

But as Mr. Agnew dipped into the South last weekend, with visits to Florida, Mississippi and Leuisiana, there was no doubt of his intentions. This was a visit to his potential base, and Vic Gold was even wearing cufflinks emblazoned with the letters "C.S.A." (Confederate States of America) for the occasion,

Every vice-president since 1940 with the single exception of Alber, W. Barkley, whose quest was vetoed by labor in 1962 because of his age-has run for President. Now It is Mr. Agnew's turn, and he has already begun to take advantage of the opportunities presented to him by his association with the White House.

Potential Rivals

While such potential rivals as Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois are at work in their home states, the Vice-President is able to wing he country, co the Committee for the Re-election of the President, cementing the kind of nationwide friendships and lovalties out of which a presidential campaign is built.

Thus, after his speech in Tampa, he huddled with state party leaders and Republican congres sional candidates, and in Missis-sippi he attended a reception to meet those he had spoken for. Reporters were hard-pressed to find out what went or because Mr. Agnew is almost as inaccessible as his boss, but participants said there had been no hard sell for 1976. None was needed. Three years from now, if history is any guide, those whom Mr. Agnew telped to fill a hali, to raise a few dollars, to win a close local race, will be there to

It is all very low-key, very implicit. Mr. Agnew does not push himself. Friday's work day last week was finished, for all incents and purposes, by 4 p.m., and Sa-turday's included precisely one appearance. It would never do, one of his intimates explained, to seem to be too eager, to seem to be pushing his own plans be-fore 1973 business is done.

Signs in Crowds

But the signs are in the crowds —"Spiro in 1976" "President Agnew"—and the politicians are looking ahead.

Clarke Reed, the Mississippi state chairman, has already begun to assemble a Southern bloc. to be delivered, as he said recently, "to the conservative who can win the election."

Mr. Reed, a progmatist, demonstrated in 1908 that he could abancon his ideological choice (Gov. Ronald Reagan of Califormial for the man closest to his position whom he considered electable (President Nixoa),

At the moment, Mr. Reed hinted, Mr. Agnew looks like the choice. The South, he said, will act as a unit and will decide, with the West, who is the presidential nominee.

The conservatives have been running this party since 1964."

The International Herald Tribune welcomes letters from readers. Short letters have o better chance of being published. All letters are subject to condensation for space reasons. Anonymous tetters will not be considered for publication. 1978. That was what the rules fight in Miami Beach was all about, And if Agnew still looks strong, we'll go for him. If not, But as the Vice-President keeps The New Style

Mr. Agnew's widely advertised new rhetorical style bereft of the alliteration and slashing attack for which he was noted, is cleardesigned to fulfill one half of Mr. Reed's formula. He exhibits a new ease (as in his deft handling of hecklers in Tampa), only saying there has been no change in his underlying attitudes. If the rest of the party wants fewer rough edges, if it feels that that will make him less "controversial" and more electable, so be it; but for his conservative base in the South and elsewhere, there is still red meat, Mr. Agnew still exhibits some

Reaction to Mitchell

It is only natural for the American people to be tired of attacks from the rest of the world. Nations, like individuals, resent an endless stream of criticism. And this letter comes from a European who has much admiration for the good things in the Ameri. can way of life which he has seen and experienced at close quarters.

However, shock-proof as I am at what goes on in this bewildering world, I shuddered at the remarks made by John Mitchell during his telephone interview with a Washington Post reporter in connection with the Watergate investigation.

Here is a man who was recently Attorney General for his country, one of the most responsible offices in the U.S. government. A example to the public on how to handle a difficult and delicate situation, regardless of the rights and wrongs of his personal involvement in this dubious and murky affair. And how did hereact? Certainly not with dignity. His comments were worthy of the had man in a third-rate Western movie. Only the saloun bar and guns were missing. His opening statement in answer to the reporter's questioning is typical. "All that crap you're putting in the paper? Jesusi Katie Graham is gonna get caught in a big fat wringer . . .

Such language does him no credit. It's also a serious indictment of President Nixon, who chose him for high office. From this distance I cannot judge the impact of such language on the American people. Mr. Mitchell could go down in history as the man who went through the big fat wringer" and came out very crumpled. What his words have done to the American image abroad is obvious enough.

Soured Electorate

Joseph Kraft in "Examining a Soured Electorate" (IHT, Oct. 4) might have added to his sound explanations a word about be-havioral science in organizations, This relatively new field claims that the greatest single moulder of a follower's behavior (actions, values, beliefs) is the behavior of his superiors. Sound research supports this claim.

Thus the public's indifference toward corruption, scandal and to moral and legal violationsnot to mention the cruel, intense, pointless bombing of Vietnem-is an image of the ethics prevailing in the White House Mr. Nixon has proved that the be-havioral scientists are rightwhen there is corruption and indifference above—the same is inevitable below.

'Arabs Must Learn'

We know the Arabs have several problems but the most serious me is miestine. But every problem bas a solution. There is always a way out but right now we don't know how to achieve this nor do we have the means to reach it. We must weigh with precision the "pros and cons" of every action we take and we must choose the best policy to attain our objectives.

In politics and war, actions are judged by their consequences. To me there is no difference between " killing innocent the terror civilians the way the Palestinians did in Munich and terror of killing women and children by dropping napalm on them-but world opinion unfertunately does see a difference.

The Palestinians would do better to weigh the consequences of such acts as Munich. Wasn't sympethy : the right to retaliate on the side of the Israelis? What was the result of it all for the Paestinians? They Were losers.

A taxi driv - told me the day after the Munich killings, "It seems to me that the terrorists are worting against the interests of the Arabs . . . they seem to he working for the Israel! cause." Arabs Lust learn.

Egypt has expelled the Russians after Cairo learned it was losing its sovere; mity and that it was being used as a pretext for the U.S. arms aid to Israel. But did the Arabs learn a lesson? Syria called the Russians and Moscow answered quickly. And this time the iang will not depart easily. Arabs must learn and not ignore facts and realities.

Turned-Off Voters What could possibly account for the political somnolence of the American people this fall? Could it be that the incumbent has succeeded in selling his fundamental program: Nizonization? This program has succeeded in redefining the meanings of tha words "war," "social justice" and "freedom". It has convinced us of the frugality of its ways, although the federal deficits for the fiscal years 1970-73 will be the largest in U.S. history. It has persuaded us that the "promised land" is already here, although many of us have trouble seeing anything through the heavy fumes of the cities. And most astonishing of all, this pro-gram has convinced us that its author is a warm, sincere, funloving man, is there anything this program cannot do?

Yes. It cannot convince those who believe that the United States can do better. A potential majority don't you think? JOHN THOMAS GRIFFIN,

Responsibility

I write in response to the Watergate caper and the Lavello affair. Perhaps the most reasonable tenet of U.S. military dogma is the requirement that each commander be held ultimately responsible for the actions of his men. This is reasonable because without a fixed point of responsibility remedial action is impossible. Such seems to be the case within both the current U.S. milltary and c'vilian establishment where command responsibility decreases with rank-reaching zero well before the top.

President Nixon likes to puff up in front of TV cameras, shake his finger and remind us: "As commander in chief I..." But when it's time to assume responsibility for various "incidents." "capers," and "affairs" he's nowhere to be found.

The debilitating fruits of the policy: "Do as I say, not as I do" is apparent throughout American

Swim Warnings

Because I saw the filth (and am aware of much unseen pollution) along the Mediterrancan this year, the report of danger of hepatitis and other infections to swimmers comes as no surprise

(IHT, Sept. 26). Since few governments have shown a willingness to eradicate the problem for moral reasons, I believe we must accept it as an economic one. If the hundreds of thousands of tourists who support the resort areas would announce to businessmen and governments that those areas would be avoided until cleaned, I think the beaches and oceans would be safe and be ntiful again in a very short time. Those of us who don't insist (in huge numbers) that these areas be protected and restored are as guilty as those who pollute and fail to enact ond enforce rigid controls.

I never questioned McCord's rders. I felt he was acting under and former attorney general of the United States.

If that was not enough to impress me with McCord's authority and official standing, we were surrounded by former White House sides McCord said were "on loan" to the committee.

My involvement with the committee began May 1 when Mc-Cord telephoned my home in Hamden, Conn. He had secured a resume I had filed with the society of ex-FBI agents in New York and had reviewed it and several other resumes on file with this society. He felt that because of my age, background and marital status—I am 36 and single—I was best suited for the

We walked a block down the street to the re-election committee headquarters at 1701 Pennsylvania Avenue, a block from the White House, and McCord took me on a tour of committee offices on several floors. As different persons passed, McCord would say things like, "That's so and so, he's from the White House" or "There's another one who's on loan from the White House." We want to the office of Fred Larve to get approval for my employment and McCord said. Mr. Larue is over from the White House, He's John Mitchell's

McCord later issued me a loaded 38 snub-nosed Police Special and said, "You'll wear this," I had no permit or official identi-fication and questioned whether I was authorized to carry it, .

He handed me a card bearing his name and the name of the re-election committee and said: "You're working for the former attorney general and there's no way a policeman or any other law-enforcement officer is going to question your right to carry that weapon. But if you have any problem, have them call me." In McCord's office at commit-ter beedquarters I noticed extensire electronic equipment—walkietalkies, television surveillance litchell, the committee director units and various other devices.

He also said that before the lune 17 arrests, Mr. McCord bad old him that he would be sent o Miami during the Democratic convention to conduct a similar nonitoring operation there. The Committee to Re-Elect the Presiient occupied a large number of rooms before and during the Democratic convention at an ennex of the Fontainebleau Hotel, which served as convention headquarters. Tight security sur-rounded the committee offices with armed guerds posted at all hotel room doors.

'I never questioned McCord's orders. I felt he was acting under orders and with full authority. After all, his boss was John Mitchell...'

The top to a fancy briefcase was open, exposing considerable electronic equipment. I was told it was a debugging unit.

McCord told me I would be accompanying Mrs. Mitchell on a trip to Michigan and New York. He issued me $800 eight brand new $100 bills—and said it was for food, drinks, tips and incidental expenses for the trip.

In Michigan, where Mrs. Mitchell attended several affairs, we were joined by Larne. He mentioned to me at one point that the pistol I was carrying had once een his weapon. As far as I knew, he was not in security work and I did not know why he would have needed a pistol. But I asked no questions.

Bulletproof Car

From Michigan we went to New York City. One of the FBI's bulletproof limousines used by the late J. Edgar Hoover met us at Grand Central Station and took us to a suburban town where we stayed for two days. When we left, the same limousine picked us up and carried us back to Grand Central Station. I was

The campaign trip lasted for seven days. Upon our return to Washington I was called up to the Mitchell apartment in the Watergate, where Mitchell thanked me for the job I had done.

I had expected to leave in two days on another trip with his wife, but McCord said she was not feeling well and the situation was so "delicate" that Fred Larue was accompanying her. He said he had other security work for me and he advanced me another $500 -five brand new $100 bills.

At McCord's direction, I moved from the Roger Smith Hotel to the Howard Johnson Motel across the street from the Watergate. I checked into room 419, which he had registered under McCord Associates, the name of his security

McCord gave me a code name, Bill Johnson, and instructed me to investigate anti-war demonstrations that were occurring in Washington about that time. I was supposed to try to learn of any plans of demonstrators to damage Republican beadquarters or to disrupt the Republican convention in Miami in August.

I still had no committee identirication, however, and twice authorities had to telephone the tials. Once a Scoret Service agent stopped me at the Capitol and another time security police stopped me at Andrews Air Force Ease. Both times the committee vouched for my credentials.

On May 24, after about two weeks of covering demonstrations, I visited my home in Hamden. When I returned to Washington the next day, I found Jim Mc-Cord in room 419 surrounded by on array of electronical equipment, including walkie-talkies and the debugging case that had been in his office at the re-election

A sophisticated receiving set, which McCord later said was worth approximately $15,000, was in a large blue 5 msonite suit-case. There was a portable radio with shortwave band and en array of tape recorders and other pieces of equipment.

McCord said. "I want to show you some of this equipment and we're going to use it." Just like that, no preliminaries and no explenations of why we would

"You'll be doing some monitor-ing on this equipment," he said, and proceeded to show me how to operate the monitoring unit. Then he took the room tele-

The tap picked McCord pointed across the street to the Watergate and said, We're going to put some units over there tonight and you'll be monitoring them." He didn't have to tell me; I knew the Democratic National Committee offices were in the Watergate.

On Friday evening, June 16, McCord displayed a unit that I thought looked like door chimes. He removed the unit's cover, exposing a sophisticated electronic

Then, to test the device, he put it next to the television set and turned the set on. The unit picked up the television reception. It was a bug, as opposed to a telephone tsp, and was the first listening device I had ever seen unattached to a phone.

Later in the evening McCord displayed a shopping bag full of different kinds of tools and equipment-screwdrivers, whres, batteries and soldering irons. The room ended up looking like a small electronics workshop.

McCord indicated to me that in addition to placing new devices the Democratic headquarters, the unit we had been unable to monitor would either be removed from the offices or put in a new location in the offices. We both continued working on the devices for some time. During a telephone conversation Mc-Cord said he might have to wait until another night to carry out the mission... Some guy was

"What do you see?" he asked. I told him I saw McCord and some other men being led away from the Watergate in hand-cuffs. He walked over, looked down at the scene and then said: "I've got to call a lawyer."

Picking up the phone, he dialed a local number. "They've had it." he told the party on the other end, adding: "Well, Tve got $5,000 in cash with me we can use for bond money."

Hunt, hanging up the phone, turned and asked if I knew where McCord lived. I said yes I had been to his house in Rockville, Md., a Washington suburb. He instructed me to pack all the equipment and take it to Mc-Cord's house and asked if I had

With that, he threw his walkietalkie on the bed and rushed from the room. "Does that mean I'm out of a job?" I shouted after him, But he disappeared down hallway without answering.

THEATER IN PARIS-

'Hello Dolly!' Arrives And Is Likely to Stay

By Thomas Ouinn Curtiss

Dolly!" has finally reached Paris and it is unlikely—as its heroine promises in its oft-heard title song—that it will go away again. It is assured of a long initial run and many a revival for it is in the solid, hardy tradition of "Rose Marie" and "The Belle of New York," which have prospered here for a generation. It pleased first nighters last evening at the Mogador as it has pleased playgoers in New York, London, Milwankee, Stockholm, Madrid and Tokyo.

The late Henri Varna, long director of the Mogador, was a shrewd diagnostician of his public's preferences and his talent has been inherited by his successors. They, too, know what their patrons relish and supply the demand. "Hello Dolly!" is happily at home in the theater, which remains a stronghold of family-audience trade. This American musical comedy might have been designed with the Mogador in mind.

It has been skillfully mounted and cast. Annie Cordy, one of the most popular songbird come-diames of France, is an ideal

The ballet corps dances agilely and spiritedly, a novelty on the Parisian musical stage, and the production has pleasing freshness and

Waverley Root: 'It's Spinach and... to Hell With It'

CELEBRATED drawing by Carl Rose in The New Yorker which depicted a harassed mother trying to persuade a recalcitrant youngster to down his dinner carried the caption (anonymous, but it was E.B. White who wrote

"It's broccoli, dear."
"I say it's spinach, and I say the hell with it."

This bit of folklore is worth recounting for two reasons: It exemplifies the lack of enthusiasm felt in many countries for broccoli, which no doubt accounts for the fuzziness in all accounts of its history or its nature, since no one was very much interested in setting down precise details about it; and it is a witness to the eclipses which this worthy vegetable has suffered from time to time because of that lack of enthuslasm. The New Yorker cartoon appeared when it did because this was the period when the United States was discovering broccoli, about 1925 to 1930, when most Americans assumed it was a newly developed plant. Actually, this was a rediscovery. Broccoli was not new to America. John Randolph of Williamsburg wrote

Gardening by a Citizen of Virginia." The stems will eat like Asparagus," he explained, "and the heads like Cauliflower." But broccoli then succumbed to general indifference and disappeared from American tables, not to resppear until the 20th century.

Accepted Meaning

Randolph's description suggests that he was talking about what most of us think of today when broccoli is mentioned, grean sprouting or Italian broccoli, Brassica oleracea italica, whose tightly closed flower buds, dark green or purplish, and the fleshy stems which bear them. are the parts eaten. This is the tionaries, which, lagging sluggishly half a century behind the public, still give as the first meaning one which in popular usage has long been abandoned, that of a slow-growing type of cauliflower (Brassica oleracea botrutis). There was also once a third meaning, still current in France, where broccoli can mean the edible flower stalk which pushes upward from the center of the ordinary cabbage at the end of its life. These different meanings obscure the story of broccoli, for when it is mentioned, there is seldom any indication of what is being talked about, broccoli, cauliflower or cabbage.

Its very name indicates that the modern world received it from Italy, for the Italian word broccoli has been adopted along with the vegetable almost everywhere -spelled the same in English; spelled with one C in French; spelled with a trifle more fantasy in Germany (Brokkoll), where it is also called Spargellohl, asparagus cabbage.

·It is in Italy, where the ancient Romans knew it, that we first hear of broccolf. Apiclus was noted for his skill in cooking it, and Drusus, the son of Tiberius, was so fond of it that the emperor was obliged to warn him that he was overdoing. It would seem that this was already the sprouting broccoli of today, but where A new production of Hugo reference books describe it as a native of Asia Minor and the eastern Mediterranean, which does not accord very well with the fact that it grows best in moderate to cool climates.

Broccoli is a form of cabbage, a remarkable plant which has branched out in a number of edible directions (kale, collards, kohlrabi, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower): cabbage is not Mediterranean either, though it early became naturalized there. There accepted meaning of the word in seem grounds for suspicion that the United States, except in dicthe Romans did not acquire what today we call broccoll already developed from the East, but created it themselves from its ancestor, the cabbage-unless it was the Etruscans, better gardeners than the Romans, who did it for them. In any case, the place of origin of spronting broccoli remains disputable, and all that we can say with any assurance is that it is in Italy that we first become aware of its existence, and in Italy that it is still best

In France

Broccoli was introduced into France by Catherine del Medici. She married Henri II in 1533; the first known use of the word brocoli in French writings is dat-ed 1560. If this meant the sort of broccoli Catherine brought with her, it should have been sprouting broccoli, which had been much improved in her native Tuscany during the Renaissance, yet for many speakers of French today brocoli still means late maturing cauliflower, and it is necessary to say broccoli cabbage, Calabrian broccoli, or asparagus broccoli to make sure that the sprouting variety is understood. Similarly in England, where broccoli arrived about 1720, broccoll or white broccoll often still designates winter cabbage. Broccoli is one of the Western vegetables adopted by the Chinese who have mastered the art of cooking it so that it comes out crisp and flavorful, which only Italians seem able to do in the West. Its taste has been described as more pronounced than that of cauliflower, less so than that of cabbage. Broccoli is packed with vitamins.

The Taste of Honey Made in the Metropolis

PARIS CHET) -- With the natives showing signs of restles the Gaullist regime enters its autumnal period, ex-officials turning mutinous and the strike season impending, President Georges Pompidou might be comforted to learn of an industrial enclavs not 300 yards from the Senste where all is sweetness and light. Where more than a million workers have been setting an example of diligence, tolling seven days a week from dawn to dusk (often humming as they work), asking no special reward and indeed enriching the community with by-products of their labor. .

The site of this astounding activity is a "bee-loud" glede in the Luxembourg Gardens that houses the Rucher-Ecole du Jardin du Luxembourg. The bees in 15 hives, each of which, at the height of the season, accommodates at least 70,000 members of the species Apis mellifica are tenants of the French Senate; the Luxembourg Gardens are part of the Senate's domain.

The bee colony has occupied the Laxembourg hives since the 1840s, when it was granted squatters' rights in perpetuity. The rent was fixed then at five francs a year and has remained unchanged. "Even Pompidou couldn't throw us out," said M. F. Liandier, secretary-general of the Société Centrale d'Apiculture, Mr. Liandier a textile exporter, is a bee-keeper by avocation. Many of his textile customers are American retailers and he speaks English fluently It's harvest time at the Luxembourg hives; he was on hand to brief. spectators at an exposition held earlier this week in the halls of the .

Candles

The exposition consists mainly of fruit, berries and vegetables grown in the Luxembourg during the season just ending, of honey made on the premises, and of beeswax candles made from the combs residue after the honey is extracted. These are yellow-orange in color, and sweet-smelling. They were on sale to visitors—3.49 francs would buy one about a foot long. Luxembourg-produced honey was also on sale, in tubs of various sizes, and visitors were encouraged to try a specuful. (It was marvelous.)

Mr. Liandier, looking on with a proprietary smile as the honey fanciers queued up for a lick, said the outstanding flavor and quality of the Luxembourg's product are doe to the huge variety of fruit trees, berry-vines, and other blossom-bearing vegetation in the gardens. The bees, in return for this bounty of nector, do a superlative job of fertilization—he indicated the nearby mounds of giant pears, apples, peaches, plums and other fruit, all grown within earshot of the thunderous traffic outside on the Boulevard St. Michel.

Most of the Laxembourg's bees stay close to home, he said but some fly as far as about a mile away, to the big Montparnasse cemetery. The attraction there is a grove of Japanese trees with blossoms that bees are wild about. This year's honey harvest is on the thin side-"about 225 kilos," or something over 450 pounds. The money derived from the sale—the honey is available only at the gardens—is plowed back into the school, to help offset operating costs. The Société Centrale d'Apiculture offers two courses a year, in spring

Also on view at the Orangeris were several sections of beenive enclosed in glass panels. Hordes of Apis mellifica were crawling over each hexagonally-sectioned comb. Mr. Liandier offered to point out the queen bee but it was some time before she was located.

"There!" he said triumphantly. "The one marked with a yellow spot."

What were the other bees doing? "Just waiting around." he said. Their work was done, the honey arrayed in tubs on the table.

Exaggeration

Mr. Liandler said that the aggressive tendencies of the bee have been much exaggerated, and he implied that the Luxembourg's bees in particular wouldn't hurt a fly. Would be handle them without protective clothing? He thought about that for a moment, then said, "Generally speaking, yes." (For the average bee, about 1,000 descents into the heart of a hipseom are required to fill its honey rac. The Luxembourg's bees shuttle between flower beds and hives half a dozen times a day. Thus it will be seen that bees really are pretty busy, which may help to account for any irritability when disturbed.)

Visitors in the Luxembourg have noted that during the last year the orchard areas, now laden with the dazzling fruit the bees helped to produce, have been given additional protection from long-armed strollers. The fences have been heightened and more netting is in use. But earlier this week, anyway—the taste of metropolitan. honey was there for the asking.

Through the various ramifications of its activiaccurate and useful data on Japan's 1,200 big firms classified into 134 types." ties the Bank has been able to Besides the above, inquiries assist immensely the expansion of Japanese industry. The Bank about (1) inquiries about Japan's market, (2) joint ventures, (3) establishment of branches in occupies the leading role not only in the provision of long-term funds but also in the Japanese Japan, (4) the Tokyo financial markets, (5) finance in Japan and abroad, (6) bonds and bond market.

The Bank's total loans outstanding as of March 31, 1972 were $8,905 million, of which 81.3 % were made for equipment investment. To cope with the recent rapid growth in demands for capital funds from overseas customers, the Bank has par-ticipated in such international syndicates as the Rothschild Intercontinental Bank, with five member banks of the Rothschild Group, as the Chief sponsor to extend world-wide loans in the name of greater international

The Bank's securities activities, centering upon those related to new issues of public and corporate bonds, have been one of the pivotal functions of the Bank since its foundation. In keeping step with the latest development of the Tokyo capital market, the Bank has been performing a very important role for foreign issuers by serving as a commissioned company for floatstion. This is a characteristic function in the Japanese bond market and involves such originating functions as informing the issuer of market conditions, advising him on the taking the required procedures.

The Bank has acted as the managing commissioned company for the majority of the bond offerings made not only by the leading corporations in Japan, such as Nippon Steel Corp., Hitachi, Ltd., Nissan Motor Co. and the seven major electric power companies, but also by such international institutions as the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the Asian Development Bank.

Of the 624 issues totaling $4,831 million sold in fiscal 1971, 265 totaling $2,840 million were sold under the Bank's auspices as the managing commissioned com-pany. As of March 31, 1972, 82% of the aggregate amount of bonds outstanding were issued with the Bank serving either as the managing or co-managing com-missioned company.

As is clear from the wide range of activities outlined above, thanks to its expertise in corporate financing, the Industrial Bank of Japan is ready to offer total services to foreign organizations seeking to raise capital funds through the issuance of bonds, in public or private placement, bank syndicate loans or otherwise in the Japanese capital

Bank of Kobe On the Move

Kobe City has grown hand-in-hand with its port, And so has Bank of Kobe against the background of the international city. Kobe. The steady growth it has achieved during the past thirty odd years since its foundation in 1936 has been the recurring topic among the banking community of Japan. The rate of its growth during the past few years, in particular, was the highest among the city banks of Japan

An official of the Bank says that foremost on the minds of its staff in the day-to-day ser-vice are the banking needs of the communities it serves. With this in mind, the Bank established new branches and consolidated old ones, and now it runs about the same number of branches in each of the nation's three largest financial centers, Tokyo, Osaka and Kobe, With its 160 branches deployed across the country, Bank of Kobe is endeavoring with an eye at becoming "the best bank for its customers."

With the coming of the 1970s, the money market of Japan has become increasingly internationalized and its data processing system automated. In keeping with such a development, Bank of Kobe established offices of resident representative in Los Angeles and Sydney, in addition to the branch offices in London and New York, On June 29 this year, the Bank opened a representative office in Hamburg, and the Los Angeles Office will be promoted to the status of agency

Thanks to these efforts, the Bank was listed among the 50 largest banks of the free world by Fortune this year. The Bank is devoting its efforts to develop its international banking business on a global scale through the reinforcement of its Foreign Department, the estal lishment of overseas offices and a network of correspondent banks and the furtherance of its cooperation with world's international investment bankers.

In order to meet the rapidly increasing volume of busine the Bank installed an up-to-date system of computers under which all operations are centrally conan operations are centrally con-troiled by on-line system, is vigorously developing various systems and is thus building up a comprehensive data bank

With a view to further gearing up its operation to attune itself to the rapidly growing international money market center-ing around the nation's capital, the Bank shifted most of the operations so far performed at Foreign Department, Kobe, to Tokyo last February and established International Planning Department last April as a stepto map out its strategy dealing with the international capital market.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

U.S. Auto Sales Set Records

Sales of newly-introduced 1973-model U.S. autos were at record levels in the final third of September, according to reports from the three major manufacturers. Their reports showed domestic sales in the final third of September may set an all-time high. General Motors, Chrysler and Ford reported 474,760 deliveries, up 23 percent from the 886,100 the three reported a year ago. GM reported a rise of 24 percent, Ford 13 percent and Chrysler 35 percent. GM's car shortage early in the month kept industry sales for September to on estimated 741,387, off 1.8 percent from 755,233

Synthetic Pulp Venture Planned

Mitsui Petrochemical Industries has reached agreement in principle with Farbwerke Hoechst, of West Germany, and Orown Zellerbach, of the United Staets, to jointly develop synthetic pulp. Officials say details of the agreement will be worked out in Tokyo later this month. The pact will provide for technology sharing and for an allocation of marketing areas, they said. Last year, Mitsul Petrochemical established a joint venture in Japan with Crown Zellerbach to produce synthetic pulp and Crown Zellerbach has a similar venture in West Germany with Hoechst. The Japanese venture is currently operating a test plant with a production capacity of 6,000 metric tons of synthetic pulp a year.

IHI Predicts Lower Earnings

Ishikawajima-Harima Heavy Industries expects after-tax profit in the six months ended Sept. 30 to fall slightly to 2.2 billion yen ($7 million) from billion in the previous period, on sales of billion yen, up from 2024 billion yen. Managing director Morio Saegusa reports that the com-pany will declare an unchanged 25 yen dividend.

Peugeot Sees Higher Sales, Profit

Peugeot's president François Gautier says he expects company turnover to rise by about 20 percent this year over 1971, when it reported net sales of 6.5 billion francs, with profit rising at about the same pace from the 1.1 billion francs earned last year. Mr. Gautier was speaking at a press presentation of the new Peugeot 104

Gillette Expects Improved Results

Gillette expects improved sales and earnings this year, William F. Brackman, vice-president for investor relations, reports. "We are very sensitive about making projections but we expect to have a good year both in sales and earnings," he adds. In 1971, the firm reported net of $62.4 million, or $2.13 a share. U.S. Index On Wholesale Goods Up .3%

But Gain Is Smallest Since Month of April

By Eileen Shanahan WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (NYT). -Wholesale prices continued to rise in September, but the rise -three tenths of 1 percent-was the smallest for any month since April, the Labor Department reported today.

Wholesale prices of industrial commodities, which economists generally consider the best basic measure of inflationary forces in the economy, also showed a reduced rate of rise.

Marina Whitman, a member of President Nixon's Council of Economie Advisers, said that the new information on wholesale prices showed "substantial progress," in the battle against infla-tion "but we don't feel that we've

Sen. George S. McGovern, in a statement issued in Cleveland, said that the figures showed that the rate of inflation was actually accelerating.

He based his charge on quarterly figures contained in tha Labor Department report, which showed a larger increase in the index in the last three months than in earlier three-month periods this year.

The index of wholesale prices is based on 100 in 1967. The over-all index rose to 120.2 in September, an increase of three-tenths of percent. The increase was the sama both before and after allowances for normal seasonal changes.

The prices of industrial commodities rose two-tenths of 1 percent while the wholesale prices of the category of foods that is of the most interest to consumers -so-called "finished," consumer foods, ready for the retail market -declined three-tenths of 1 percent, on the seasonally-adjusted

The over-all index rose by a seasonally-adjusted annual rate of 6.7 percent in the quarter that just ended, compared with 4.9 percent in the April-June quarter and also 4.9 percent in the January-March quarter.

Wholesale prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds rose at an annual rate of 17.4 percent in the latest quarter, compared with 4.8 percent in the April-June quarter and 7 percent in the January-March quarter.

The prices of industrial commodities rose at an annual rate of 3.2 percent in the most recent quarter, compared with 4.9 percent and 4.2 percent in the two panded at a record rate in August, led by a strong gain in credit for autos.

Consumer installment debt outstanding climbed a seasonally adjusted $1.44 billion in the month, the Federal Reserve Board said. The increase matched the record gain of May and was up from July's $1.03 billion.

"The use of credit has expanded quite rapidly in the last six months," a government economist said, noting that August Petroli SpA, which, with aswas the sixth consecutive month sociates, owns and operates large service refinery operations in in which personal debt has grown by more than $1 billion. He said

Auto credit rose an adjusted

$561 million, a record. This compared with July's $847 million and June's $647 million, the previous high. Loans for other consumer goods rose an adjusted $380 million in July.

"We look at this as probably related to the very high level of housing completions," the government economist said in explaining the large rise in debt for nonautomotive

Blue Chips, Glamours Drop As Mid-Session Rally Fails

By Vartania G. Vartan

Stock prices broke sharply today with blue-chip and glamour issues falling along with the general list on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrials dropped 10.01 to 941.30, after wiping out a rally attempt at mid-session. The market break-particularly evident in the final hour of trading-did not result from any particular news developments. Instead, as Wall Street analysts noted prices fell for a number of reasons, some of them psychological as investors continued to ignore the economic recovery.

"Market sentiment deteriorated partly because of the wide open breaks seen earlier this week in such individual stocks as Levitz Furniture, American Air Filter and ARA Services," commented one broker.

For the last month, in addition, market psychology has been undermined by heavy redemptions of mutual fund shares fears of new taxes and further inflation in 1973, the reluctance of small investors to buy stocks and the deterioration of prices -a process that creates its own atmosphere of caution. Today, more than 1,000 issues dropped.

Glamour Losers Losers in the glamour sector included International Business Machines, down 8 1/4 to 395; G. D. Searle, 7 1/4 to 93 1/2; Upjohn, 5 1/2 to 117 1/4; Xerox, 3 1/4 to 154 5/8; Black & Decker, 3 3/4 to 99 1/2; Texas Instru-ments, 3 5/8 to 171 1/4; Burroughs, 5 3/4 to 213 3/8; Bandag, 4 1/4 to 67; Skyline, 2 to 45 1/2; Dieney, 4 3/8 to 172 7/8; Digital Equipment, 2 3/4 to 91 1/2, and Aven Products, 2 3/8 to 120 7/8. Among the blue chips, Eastman Kodak was a big loser, falling 4 7/8 to 133 3/8. Coca-Cola moved down 2 1/4 to 136 3/4 and 107 1/2. Alcoa gave up 2 to 49 5/8. A number of market observers have said repeatedly that stocks need 'new leadership" and suggested that this might take place with a switch of investor money out of glamour issues carrying high price-earnings multiples into more mundane, or cyclical, stocks

with relatively low multiples. "But what were seeing right now is cash moving out of the high fliers and into bank accounts," noted the manager of one brokerage office. Another broker chimed in: "The investing public was on the sidelines. Now stadium.

On the active list, Levitz Furniture fell 2 1/8 to 24 1/8, bringing its complative decline in the last five trading days to 22 7/8. This sell-off was precipitated by a management statement that earnings would be "disappointing" for Federal Reserve reported.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (NYT).- the three months ending Oct. 31. ARA Services, the nation's largest vending company, dropped 2 to 135 in active trading. It has plunged 26 1/2 in the last three sessions. The Federal Trade Commission has challenged many of ARA's acquisitions in recent years.

FTC Charges Service Firm

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (WP) .-The Federal Trade Commission yesterday challenged as anti-competitive the acquisition of 110 companies by ARA Services Inc. the nation's largest supplier of vending services and wholesaler of periodicals and paperback books which had sales totaling $716 million last year. The FTC challenge to ARA's merger activities came in two separate proposed complaints one alleging that 12 acquisitions involving 39 local periodicals distributors since 1968 endanger competition, the other alleging that 98 vending company acquisi-tions since 1967 may tend to create a monopoly.

The agency is seeking to undo most of the acquisitions. It wants ARA to divest each of the 93 vending firms and would prohibit any further mergers in the field for 20 years without prior FTC approval.

In the case of the periodicals companies, the agency is seeking divestiture of all but two of the acquired firms and would bar future acquisitions for 10 years without prior approval.

An ARA Services spokesman said it "has consistently adhered" to federal laws and "if anything, the effect of the acquisitions has been to enhance competition." ARA can now negotiate a consent settlement or have the matter edjudicated before an admin-

South opened with one heart, and showed a powerful hand hy raising the one-spade response to game. North used Blackwood, locating two aces and one king in his partner's hand. North then had the information he needed to bid the grand slam, and he bid it in hearts rather than spades for two very good reasons. First, the danger of a heart ruff exceeded the danger of a spade ruff, for the partnership clearly held more hearts than

D.H. LAWRENCE The Man and His Work, the Formatice Years, 1885-1919

By Emile Delavenay. Translated from French by Kathar M. Delavenay. Illustrated, 593 pps. Southern Illinois Univ. sity Press. $25.

Reviewed by Richard Locke

WHEN first published in France in 1959, this long and ambitious study of the early life and work of D. H. Lawrence was greeted with the highest praise. American scholars immediately joined in: Julian Moynahan described it as "perhaps the most important Lawrence study to have appeared in any language during the last 10 years" and Harry T. Moore called it "sensible and brilliant, informative and exciting."

Now that it's available English, one can see that it is important, knowledgeable, slow and prejudiced. Its author advocates a rigidly chronological, "scientific" approach to literary biography, which Moynahan has rightly called "deterministic." Delavenay traces the minutiae of Lawrence's life, tracking down the biographical and literary sources of fictional characters, images and ideas. Importantly, he untangles much of the history of Lawrence's relationships with a diamond loser playing in seven several women in his late adohearts, but there would be no discard in spades. A significant but unobtrusive lescence and gets as close as anyone probably ever will to the facts of Lawrence's life with his wife, Frieda. Delavenay also uncovers feature of the anction was East'e evidence that suggests that wartime politics, not ontraged prudery, lay behind the supreshe could double seven hearts to ask West to lead a spade. But he also realized that the double sion of Lawrence's novel, Rainbow," for obscenity in 1915. Throughout, Delavenay, of the University of Nice, is serious, intelligent, hardworking, and yet his book is disastrously flawed. It is astonishing to realize that this massive tome, 40 years in the making, was written out of a profound personal anger at Lawrence and a violent disapproval of his work. This anger results in a hopelessly partial view. Delavenay is the only Lawrence scholar to have known Jessie Chambers, Lawrence's rejected adolescent love, and sha gave Delavenay much hitherto unpublished information. He uses this to dispute Lawrence's portrait of her as Miriam in "Sons and Lovers," which Delavenay treats as if it were a hiography not a novel. Delavenay's brief for Jessie soon grows into a wholesale attack. He accuses Lawrence of base ingratitude and brazen literary exploitation of his friends, "inberent sadism," puritan shame, anal eroticism, pathological jealousy, repressed homosexuality, premature ejaculation, a fear and craving for women as devouring earth-mothers, and an "almost compulsive inability to maintain any kind of human relationship."

Delavenay concedes at times that Lawrence was charming especially to women, who might be "small fry in his net"-and he admits "in all fairness" that Lawrence did work awfully hard. But, for Delavenay, Lawrence is also a "disgruntled megalomaniac," a proto-Nazi, given to reactionary primitivism, racism, totalitarian contempt for common humanity and a "negation of majority rights in the name of a brand of sacred superhuman egotism."

Lawrence's literary works are, for him, "passionately confused" self-justifications, symptoms mas-

Also 37 and in his 20th season, Al Kaline was the grandest player of them all in the final two weeks of the race.

After reading about the baling wire and the adhesive tape that allegedly connected his wrist bone to his finger bones, Kaline went to Boston and began an 11-game streak in which he got 23 hits in 44 times at bat, raising his average 36 points to 313 and sparking the Tigers to the

The 22d hit of Kaline's streak came off Luis Tiant in the 7th inning Tuesday night and drove in McAuliffe, who had doubled, with the tie-breaking run. Kaline later scored on Cash's bouncer, which Carl Yastrzemski dropped as he tried to throw to the plate. The outcome of the game eliminated the Red Sox and made Yastrzemski cry.

"This is the biggest disappoint ment of my career," said Yastr-zemski, who has known many moments of glory. "I wanted to win this year more than I wanted the one in 1967. But if I had to lose, I'm glad it was to a man like Kaline. He'e one helluva

After stumbling through the first 10 weeks of the season, the Red Sox came alive late in Juna and from then on compiled the best record among the contenders.

It might have been coincidence, but they started winning right after Carlton Fisk, the rookle catcher, suggested that some of the veterans, such as Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith, weren't providing the leadership younger players needed.

"I'd rather think it wasn't any of my doing," said Pisk. "You can't keep athletes of their ability down. They just got loose and came into their own."

Four Managers Rebired

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (NYT).-Pour American League managers received new contracts as the regular baseball season closed yesterday, including Billy Martin of the Tigers and Eddie Kasko

The other managers who signed again were Ken Aspromonte of the Cleveland Indians, fifth in the East, and Frank Quilici of the Minnesota Twins, third in the West.

It was a good day for the men in the dugout in a season that was strewn with casualties. Seven of the 24 managers in the major leagues were dismissed earlier, including Bob Lemon of the Kansas City Royals on Tuesday. Ted Williams of the Texas Rangers announced his retirement last Saturday.

Brewers Replace Lane

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 5 (UPI).-The Milwankee Brewers removed Frank Lane as director of baseball operations today and replaced him with scouting director Jim Wilson, a former major league pitcher who once had a no-hitter with the Milweukce Braves.

Lane, a baseball figure for half a century, remains with the elub as a vice-president and "will do work connected with that capacity," the Brewers' president, Allan Selig, said. He added that Lane's chief duties would be in scouting and laying the ground-work for possible trades.

Golf's Big Ball in French Debut

By Bernard Kirsch

SAINT - NOM - LA-BR TTECHE Oct. 5 (IET).—For Gary Player, it is an unwritten law of golf that as the price of real estate increases, the size of the European golf ball will increase.

Player and seven other golfers whacked around a golf ball 1.68 inches in diameter, the first time that a ball that size has been obligatory in France. Golfers such as Player and Arnold Palmer undoubtedly influenced tha French to substitute the big ball for their only important international tournament of the year.

The small ball-1.62 inches in diameter—is a long traveler off the tee and power hitters have always excited crowds. Unfortanately for France, it does not have a hitter of any kind to

This is the third year of France's efforts to make a go of golf, and Lancome, a cosmetics firm with money to spare, is willing and able to give away $33,000 in prize money to bring to this west Paris suburb some of the world's top golfing names. Today, the first 18 holes of tha 72-hole event were played-with the "big ball."

Mistakes Everywhere

"A bad shot with a big ball is too easily noticed," Player said after he made a few bad shots, including a double bogey on the fifth, and finished with a oneunder-par 71 on the 7,048-yard course here. But mistakes came easily today, and the South African's 71 was good enough to give him a tie for the lead with Tommy Aaron of the United States.

little difference with a golfer of Player's standard and strength, But the smaller the golf ball. the further it can be driven and Player says that since real estate is so expensive, and thus you can't lengthen the course, you must make the ball bigger because it cuts the distance." Player also said that modern day courses are out of date because they are so small and

"golfers have improved so much -like everything else."

Player, 35 years old and tha winner this year of the U.S. PGA. also said that like everything else, he will keep on improving and is willing to bet anything, any amount I have. that when I'm 40, I'll be able to drive 15 yards farther than I do

This year Player has $190,000 in golf earnings and he now drives 265 yards.

at a drive-in hamburger dispensary. He had just eaten $1.37 worth of gastric distress. "Hello there, my friend," said

Belcher, extending his shaking hand. The average American voter started to smile with ecstatic delight for the photographers. He with ecstatic delight for the photographers while having his intelligence insulted by politicians in public. Now, however, he noticed that there were no photographers, and so he suspended his ecstatic amile in midface.

"Where are the photographers?" he asked. "I don't like to wasta any ecstatic smiles that aren't going to be photographed. There are a lot of politicians running this year, and my ecstasy supply is getting low."

"Every American has a right to twice as much ecstasy as he has been getting in the past," said Belcher, "and I intend to see that he gets it. My first act upon taking office will be to-"

The average American voter stopped him in midpromise. "You must be an amateur," he said to Belcher. "You come out to mingle with mc and you don't even have photographers to illustrate how happy you are about being with

Air Pocket Saves Man Buried Under Clay

BIRMINGHAM, Als., Oct. 5 (API.—County construction worker Holly Munford, 50, was buried under four feet of loose clay m a ditch Tuesday but, despita being trapped there for 45 minutes, was rescued alive. Authorities credited an appareot air pocket for his ability to breathe that long.

They said fellow workers heard his cries for belp from under the clay and located him in 45 mioutes. A bucket was put over his head and a hose ruo under it to give him air in the event of further cave-ins.

NEW YORK, — Belcher spotted the average American, You insult the average American voter my intelligence without first having me sing the national anthem and participate in organized mass cheering about your excellence. And now you're getting ready to lie to me right here on a drive-in parking lot."

> Belcher could not be stopped. "When elected," he said, "there will be twice as many parking lots and everyone on them will be twice as ecstatic."

The average American voter was becoming impatient, which is something he does comparatively rarely, considering the provocation he has.

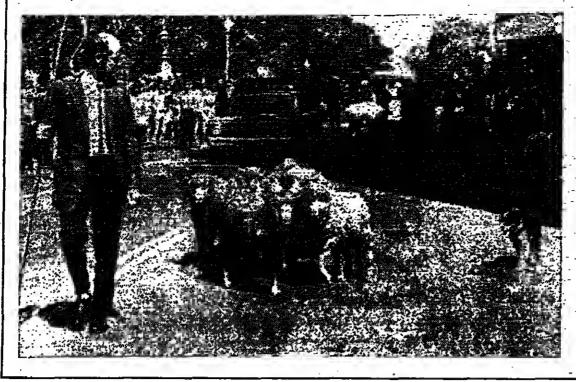

"Listen, buddy," he said to Belcher, "I was trying to tell you about lying to me. I don't like to be lied to standing on a drivein parking lot. It isn't done that way. It just isn't done. I am supposed to be lied to on television, preferably in prime time."

"Let's look at the record," said Belcher. "Four years ago I prom-ised you twice as many lies, and I have kept that promise, Anyone who says that I have out-stripped all previous records for lying is telling the truth. And I ask yoo, my fellow American, can this country afford a man who cannot be trusted not to tell the truth? All decent people lie, every day of their lives. That's what makes them so decent."

The average American voter was now extremely vexed. "You are, without doubt, the dumbest politician I have ever beec lied to by," he said. "You can't just stand here on a drive-in parking lot and sppeal to my worst in-stincts like this. Wheo my worst instincts are appealed to, I want them sppealed to oo television, in prime time, after some pa-triotic music and a boot of hypocritical prayer." "Immediately upon assuming office," Belcher roared, "I pledge that hypocritical prayer will be the order of the day, and the order of the night too, and of the dawn and twilight. I promise twice as much hypocrisy every hour."

The average American voter's vexation had turned to sorrow and he was crying. He did not know whether it was because of the hamburgers or because he was suddenly very tired or because he had just realized that he and Belcher were made for each other.

Clocking Cock Crows for Fun and Profit

By David Haworth SERAING, Belgium (IHT).—The event announces itself from a distance, the sound becknning along the cobbled streets of Seraing, a mining town near Liège. This is perhaps the oddest sporting event-ever devised.

Cock singing is the name of the same. Unique to the black country around Liège, it is pur-sued with a solemn sense of Every Sunday morning and public holiday throughout tha year, competitors arrive from all over the area, brawny men with thick arms, carrying a small wooden box with initials carved or painted on the lid. Each box has a hole cut in one end allowing the tail feathers of the cock to spray into the air.

Their owners lift the birds from the boxes and put them into oumbered cages lined up for 50 yards. This, it is said, gives the birds a sense of liberation and occasion.

The birds are stroked, patted and cajoled before the cootest begins-a ritual, for the cock is going to "sing" anyway. The question is: How many times will it sing in an hour?

A combination of skill, luck and intuition is required, mostly luck. Each bird's owner predicts a figure and lays money on it. The cock may be vocal or not, it doesn't matter how many times it performs in the measured period -12 or 60 cries but the prediction must be precise.

After bets are placed, the men retire behind a long, corrugated iron screen, out of sight of the creatures. If a cock were able to see his master during the competition and there is absolute conviction about this-it might respond to a signal

Between this screen and the cocks' cages the judges stand to watch, listen and record. The noise, of course, is already ear-piercing before the competition begins, but on the hour the measuring starts. Sometimes together, sometimes singly, sometimes in series, the birds stretch their oecks and let go with an enormous "cock-a-doodle-do."

The Beginning . These cock-singing competitions, so far as anyone can recall, began around 1905. The whose bird could sing the loudest and bets were placed. But as there were oo mechanical means to measure the noise of a bird in full throat and there could be no objective jodgment the Sunday morning tournaments often ended in brawls. Much easier to gauge the competitioo on the frequency of cries-and keep the peace.

Adrien Verhamme, a retired lathe operator and cock-singing prize winner, remained cheerful despite his disappointment a few Sundays ago in his Co-Co's performance. He had bet 400 Belgian france that the cock would screech 50 times. But Co-Co let him down by greeting the fine morning with 52 cries.

Whatever the merits of cocksinging competitions, they are strongholds of male chauvinism No women are allowed oear the contest on the grounds that their more brightly colored clothes might encourage the birds into untypical performances.

Mr. Verhamme's wife, it turned out, was fed up. She visits relatives every Sunday, and her husband has to make his own meal One can see ner point of view: It is not easy to be married to a cock-singing enthusiast The bird practices every day of the week, all seasons, and as likely as not tunes up about
